DAIRY AND POULTRY

Butter - Supplies for civilians was low as most receivers report that 60 to 70 pounds out of every 100 pounds received go to Quartermaster and WSA. Demand, however, is so restricted by 24 point rationing and limited use by restaurants and hotels, that supplies at least give the appearance of adequacy.

Eggs - Most retail stores have supplies of eggs only part of the time, and many customers have been without eggs as deliveries are quickly sold. Higher temperatures in producing areas have curtailed production.

Poultry - Heavy demand for all classes of dressed poultry makes supplies insufficient to meet civilian needs.

LIVESTOCK

Beef - General supplies continued below daily requirements. Offerings were in a wider range of quality, as cow beef made up a greater percentage of the total.

Lamb - A rather liberal volume of lamb on the market had a ready clearance.

Pork - There was a slight increase in pork cuts, but a very heavy demand from a strong market.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE

Apricots are the most plentiful fruit to be found on the market, and selling a little below ceiling. A few new apples are starting to arrive from Tulare and Sonoma counties. Avocados continue scarce and high. The volume of cantaloups is increasing, but the demand is heavy. Cherries have passed their peak and this week will be about the last call for those wanting to can. Early varieties of peaches and plums are more plentiful at slightly lower prices. There is a large demand for the few watermelons available. Citrus fruits continue in about moderate supply. All varieties of berries available are high.

A slow demand for artichokes has caused the price to drop slightly. This week will be about the last call for those wishing to can asparagus. The volume this week is moderate. Squash and tomatoes are best buys this week. The price of both has dropped considerably and the volume has increased. Snap beans are increasing slightly. Those varieties that have no ceiling are high. Celery is in light to moderate supply and higher. Corn is starting from Contra Costa county and is lower. Due to a change in ceiling, cucumbers are lower and the volume has increased slightly. Onions are in slightly lighter supply. Peas are in lighter supply with the best quality at ceiling. Potatoes are in moderate supply and selling at ceiling. B grade potatoes are lower, but the demand for these is slow.
